will not share in this prosperity. With a continuation of the masterly administration of President McKinley, the island will stand to reason that the men of the United States who have been willing to invest in European securities will not be willing to invest in the new territory of our own country. Does it not stand to reason that they will purchase our stocks and securities, that they will establish new factories here and that with the wonderful growth of the carrying trade of the Pacific hundreds of new industries will be established in Hawaii which will be mighty helps to the upbuilding and prosperity of the territory?

How important it is then that a delegate to congress in harmony with the republican administration be elected by the voters of Hawaii, and how important it is to the future of the territory that a legislature in political harmony with the national administration be elected by the people of Hawaii. Then it can be said of us as of the national administration at Washington that we are wise in having a republican rule under which business interests will be subserved and under which investments will be secure and under which all the people will prosper.

THE HOG BLADDER.

"I want to say that it should be to the honor of every Hawaiian here to vote for David for delegate to congress. I say it will bring a blush of shame to your cheeks to have your ally beaten by any man in Hawaii. I want to see the Hawaiians keep together."

The foregoing is an excerpt verbatim et literatim from the speech of E. B. McClanahan, delivered at the democratic rally at the Orpheum Monday night. If the same speech had been delivered at any independent rally by Wilcox or any of his followers the Advertiser would have inflicted upon its "gentle readers" a column editorial upon the evil tendencies of the Hawaiians towards race cohesion. It would have been taken as an illustration of the hatred entertained by the Hawaiians for the haoles. But Mr. McClanahan, while himself an obscure and inconsequential, though windy, member of the community, is yet an attaché of a law firm which to a very great extent represents the missionary element of Honolulu in politics and matters; accordingly any denigrating and bombastic appeal which he may make to race sentiment, antipathy, prejudice or passion is passed by without protest, objection or criticism by the morning organ which is representative of the same interests. Let it be recorded in the minds of the people of these islands as we now record it in the columns of this paper that this first appeal made on the stump for race voting and to race prejudice was made by a white man to Hawaiians. The man himself—as all demagogues and time-servers do—will for a time ride on the wave of an ephemeral popularity, but like the hog bladder toyed by the small boy, he will eventually be exploded and consigned to the garbage cart.

With the approach of the holidays, holiday ads are beginning to make their appearance, and with them the fool who wants to spell Christmas "Xmas." To such men The Republican would like to ask if they were writing the name of the Savior of Mankind would they spell it "J. X."? That would be just as sensible and fully as appropriate as writing Christmas "Xmas." We are glad to say that all the better class papers over the land are taboing the use of "Xmas" any place in their columns, regardless of whether it is paid for or not. "Xmas" is tabu in the columns of The Republican.

The new manager of the Honolulu telephone system seems to be making progress like the crawfish—backward. The service is even more execrable than ever, if that be possible. The induction system is ruinous upon the ears of patrons of the phones, while the ignorance, indolence and impudence of the operators is a terrible torture to patience and goodliness. There never will be any improvement until the entire system is overhauled and until operators of at least average intelligence are placed in charge of the work at central.

News just received here announces the appointment of Frederick W. Job, formerly consul for Hawaii in Chicago, to be consular representative for the Dominican republic in that city. Mr. Job has many friends in Hawaii who are glad to note his success in life.

The independents are doing just what the republicans and democrats most desire they should do. Making colossal fools of themselves and thus insuring defeat of every man on their ticket.

HAWAII'S FORESTS.

[Editorial in Washington Star Sept. 25.] It is to be hoped that the annexation of Hawaii will not result ultimately in the destruction of one of its chief natural beauties, the forests, which now make of this group one of the loveliest spots on earth. Yet there is some danger that in the extraordinary development of the resources of the islands the enterprise of the capitalists may not stop short of the denudation of these magnificent growths. On this point The Honolulu Republican, a lately organized newspaper, with perhaps the real of a newcomer in the field recently said:

"Let the woodsman spare the ax in Honolulu and throughout Hawaii. The felling of a tree is the labor of an hour—often the result of a thoughtless whim; its development into all its beauty as the work of ages. Spare the tree; stand for the beautifying of the island."

This voice of timely warning should be heeded. One of the most serious present problems in the eastern portion of the mainland results from the destruction of the forest growths. First came the pioneers, cutting out the trees to make a clearing for a house and small farm. Then, decades later, advanced the city makers, to push the work of denudation, while in the most richly wooded sections the timber cutters continued their destructive, though, of course, necessary work so energetically that in the course of three or four generations the great forests had entirely disappeared. Forest fires completed the destruction where the hand of man had been stayed by the fall of the profitable trees. And now it is seriously suggested by students of the situation that much of the drought which occasionally interferes so seriously with the work of the farmers is due to the stripping of the trees. Rivers have shrunk from their former size because of the lessened rainfall. It has become necessary now for the government to take up the problem systematically and seek to solve it by instructing the people in tree culture. At least one of the large universities, Cornell, has instituted a school of forestry, in the hope of starting out missionaries to foster the forests back to a condition of wholesome growth. Hawaii can avoid this sad experience by imposing stringent restrictions upon tree cutting. In this work it will need the intelligent aid of congress, for the enactment of statutes to form the basis of a systematic supervision over the forests. The government should not neglect this item in the management of the new territory, but should carry out its own experiment conducted in the great reserves of the far west, where good work has been done toward the preservation of some of the grand forests which give to that section its rare beauty. A law passed now will bear good fruit in the years to come.

When you cannot sleep for coughing it is hardly necessary that any one should tell you that you need a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to allay the irritation of the throat and make sleep possible. It is good. Try it. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., general agents, Territory of Hawaii.
